N-G-O spells
ney for school
athletics

By STEPHEN BUEL

ALBANY — The newly-formed Albany High Boosters Club is planning that it can raise money with a weekly bingo event to offset the $14,200 in athletic fees which were imposed by the Board of Education this year.

At that end, last week the club voted to purchase $5,000 of furniture for use by the booster club in its bingo operation. The money is scheduled to be paid back to the board at a later date.

The $60 student fees for the fall athletic season, which began Monday, are being held in abeyance by the board, until they can be offset by bingo revenues. Should bingo not pan out, board members said the fees would have to be reimbursed later.

According to Robert Hoyle, a teacher and football coach at Albany High, and charter member of the booster club, the opening of bingo season is only being held up now by the repair work which is underway on the floor at Middle School.

"It's slow and behind schedule," Hoyle said. "Right now we think opening day will be Oct. 16. Any later will be very disappointing." He said it would take some time to teach the members of the booster club how to run a bingo game.

But Hoyle was optimistic of the venture's success once the season gets going. He said bingo will be a regular feature at middle school, "every Saturday night for the rest of our lives."

Booster club members said the group's first priority after paying its own start-up costs will be to pay for the coming year's athletic fees. But

Solano closure OK'd over chief's advice

By Stephen Buel

ALBANY — In a rebuff to Chief of Police James Simmons, the city council has overturned his denial of a street closure permit for the Solano Stroll, and ordered the chief to send out the police reserves to maintain order at the September street fair.

Claiming the power to override the chief under a section of the Albany Municipal Code, the council instructed Simmons to provide it by next Monday with a security proposal and estimate of costs not to exceed $1,000.

Simmons said last Friday that a minimum of 15 police officers would be necessary to maintain adequate security at the Stroll. Speakers at the meeting acknowledged that $1,000 would only pay for about ten off-duty officers. Simmons also said that one estimate of the number of police officers needed ran as high as 49.

With the council's order, Solano Avenue will be closed on the afternoon of September 19 from the Berkeley border at Tulare to San Pablo Avenue.

According to Carol Walker, secretary for the Solano Avenue Association, which is sponsoring the Stroll, parking for the 10,000 visitors who are expected will be provided by arrangement with Golden Gate Fields.

The council's decision was greeted by rare applause from a usually dormant audience which contained several people who had come specially to lobby for the closure.

Ronnie Davis, the branch manager of the Albany library, said the library plans to hold an open house for the Stroll, with refreshments provided by the Friends of the Albany Library. She also said the newly-formed Albany Arts Committee will use the event to hold its first public art exhibit, in front of the library.

Simmons was not present at the meeting to explain his denial of the permit, so the council relied upon Walker's reiteration of what the chief told her about his department's inadequacy to handle such a large event.

"We should think about the kind of people who come to the Stroll," said Stuart Froman, a member of the Albany Arts Committee. "I don't think that the show of force that the police department seems to think is necessary is necessary."

Simmons has stated that he cannot order his full time employees to work overtime to police the Stroll. The

When citizens work together Pitching in to clean Albany

By MARTY ROSMAN

We citizens of Albany are fortunate to live in a community that is comparatively safe, clean and attractive. With the reductions in city funding due to Prop. 13 tax cuts, revenue-sharing cutbacks and depletion of state bail-out funds, however, those city services that we have always depended on for the good appearance of Albany have had to be reduced.

While the street, parks and school maintenance staff are working hard to keep the public areas of the city clean and well-groomed, there are fewer hours available now for that work, and some areas are going relatively untended.

Some of my neighbors and I got together not long ago and decided that we wanted to do something about the problem. Pooling our tools and efforts, we cleared out the ugly weeds at the curb line and gutter for a whole block along the west side of the park strip on Key Route Boulevard north of Solano Avenue. We also intend to "adopt" that particular location for that purpose, continuing to keep it clear of weed growth.

In addition to helping beautify our neighborhood, we found that working together in this new way was fun, and we enjoyed the feeling of common activity. I'm writing this to encourage other Albany people to share this new community feeling and the joy of working together, by also "adopting" a nearby public area that needs their help.

Where the elite meet: a guide for joggers

By KEITH EASTHOUSE

and of running the same old, same old each day? You shouldn't. There are plenty of different ways you can huff-and-puff on in Albany, Kensington and El Cerrito.

Take El Cerrito resident Mary Gaffield. A member of the UC-Berkeley country and track teams, the 35-year-old college sophomore was the first woman to the finish line of the El Cerrito Hills Run for seven years. The fact that she has run 80 miles a week may have something to do with her success.

Gaffield's favorite local runs include a three-mile loop beginning and ending at El Cerrito High School. Just east from the school for a block before going south on Solano Avenue, Gaffield heads to the bay after reaching Solano Avenue. She jogs back along Key Boulevard, which has a grassy strip for part of the way that she pounds on her legs.

Usually, Gaffield will do this run in the afternoon. In the morning, she takes the route taken by the Hillside Run. Beginning in the El Cerrito corner of Pomona Avenue and Moser Lane, the course runs for half-a-mile along Pomona Avenue and Ashbury Avenue before returning to Moser. This is the hardest part of the loop, a grueling half-mile that doesn't end until the runner turns north on Naveillier Avenue. Then begins a mile of up-and-down terrain to Blake Street.

Turning towards the bay, the course flattens out between miles two and three-and-a-half as it proceeds south under the BART tracks, back towards Moeser. The last half-mile up Moeser is gradual.

Gaffield calls this course "my bread-and-butter run."

"I know the course blindfolded," said Gaffield, who ran the most recent Hillside Run (held August 7) in 23 minutes, 30 seconds, her best time yet. "I've run it so many times that I know the neighbors along the route real well. This is nice since if anyone is following me I can just stop at a house and go inside for awhile. I've never had to do that, but it's nice to know that I can if I have to."

Another route Gaffield frequently takes is to go west on Central Avenue over Interstate 80 until she reaches Point Isabel Regional Park, located right on the bay at the El Cerrito-Richmond border.

In this 21-acre park, Gaffield takes a one-mile, part-asphalt, part-dirt trail that goes along both sides of a channel. According to Park Supervisor John Perry, the terrain includes rolling hills and meadows. Dogs are permitted, Perry said, but they must be on a leash.

Perry added that the park is frequently foggy and windy.

Other places to jog in town include two, one-mile long Parcourses. One begins just north of the El Cerrito BART Station, and runs under the BART tracks to McDonald Avenue on the Richmond border. There are 18 different stations along the route that call on joggers to perform such exercises as sit-ups, push-ups and jumping jacks.

The second Parcourse begins at the corner of Washington Avenue and Masonic Avenue and continues, also under the BART tracks, for one mile to the Berkeley-Albany border.

Additionally, according to Gaffield, Albany High and especially El Cerrito High have good dirt tracks.

Gaffield's brother Jim, 18, prefers to run in the hills above El Cerrito, Albany and Kensington. The winner of this year's Hillside Run (he ran it in 21 minutes, 47 seconds), Jim runs from five to 15 miles a day. Holder of the second best time ever for the mile at El Cerrito High (four minutes, 16 seconds), Jim is planning on competing in cross-country and track for Occidental College in Pasadena, which he enters as a freshman this fall.

His favorite local run starts at Summit Reservoir, on the Berkeley-Kensington border. From here he enters Tilden Regional Park, running three-and-a-half miles along tree-lined Wildcat Canyon Road until he gets to Inspiration Point, located at the east end of the park. He usually turns around at this point and goes back (he said he averages about seven minutes a mile on these jogs), but sometimes he takes what is perhaps the most spectacular jogging trail in the Bay Area, Nimitz Way.

Beginning at Inspiration Point, Ni-

mitz Way runs north along a grassy ridge top. With open, rolling hills on one side and the bay on the other, it's easy to take your mind off the pain in your chest and the soreness in your legs.

This path is paved for four-and-a-half miles, so it's also open to bicycles. Where the asphalt ends, the steep downhill part begins. If you take it long enough, the trail eventually goes to the north end of Wildcat Canyon Regional Park, 2365 acres of open space located above El Cerrito and Richmond.

At the bottom of Wildcat Canyon below Nimitz Way runs Range Country Road, a fairly wide, dirt trail that extends four miles from the Tilden Nature Area (located east of Kensington) to Alvarado Park (located in the Richmond hills). Jim and Mary Gaffield both do this one occasionally, and they said that running east, away from Alvarado Park, the trail is gradually uphill.

Steve Abbots, supervising naturalist at the nature area, said Range Country Road runs through grassland and dense woodland. Additionally, he said wild artichokes can be found in abundance.

Hardy souls can also take the narrow Mezu Trail, which climbs 500 feet in a mile-and-a-half and connects Range Country Road with Nimitz Way. Also leaving Range Country Road, running four miles at first steeply and then gradually uphill to Inspiration Point, is the Conlon Trail.

There are in fact numerous trails that run throughout this region. Seven-hundred-acre Tilden Nature Area has almost 20 miles of fire roads, horse trails and hiking paths suitable for jogging, while Wildcat Canyon Regional Park has roughly 27 miles worth.

The biggest hazard on these trails is poison oak. Abbots suggested that joggers come into the Environmental Education Center located at the nature area and learn how to recognize it before they proceed out along the trails.

Crime has not been a big problem up in the park or nature area, although on Memorial Day last year a woman jogging alone was raped on the Range Country Road. Abbots advised women to jog in pairs.

Abbots also said that no dogs are allowed in the nature area.

Nuclear freeze day planned at school

East Bay Educators for Social Responsibility will hold a disarmament education day on 'What to Tell the Children' Saturday, Sept. 25 from 1-5 p.m.

The seminar will be at the Peralta Year-Round School, 460 63rd St., Oakland.

Featured will be Patricia Ellsberg, and a panel of educators and students.

Films like "The Last Epidemic," and mixed media presentations will be shown.

Council approves Solano close

council seemed to get around that hitch by ordering him to use the police reserve officers.

"You have the authority to do what you want in this situation," City Attorney Robert Zweben told the council. But he added, "If your inclination as a body is to grant the permit, you'd be well advised to attach very specific conditions."

The conditions imposed by the council require the Solano Avenue Association to take out a $500,000 event insurance policy, put traffic barricades at every corner of Solano as well as one block away at Marin and Washington Avenues, to notify all area businesses and residents prior to the closure, and to work with the city to reroute bus service to Marin or Washington.

Vice Mayor Anne Rotramel said she thought it would be possible to perform security on Solano for much less than the $1,000 which has been budgeted for the job. Rotramel noted that state highway workers did alright without police support when they closed off San Pablo for resurfacing.

"I find it very hard to believe that people will crash through barricades when it's closed off," she said. "I cannot imagine that our police reserve officers would not be satisfactory for that task."

Toward that end, Rotramel made a motion which passed unanimously to give the police department the balance of whatever portion of the city's $500 which is not spent on security.

But many members of the audience were clearly miffed at the prospect of having to pay an extra money for security for the Stroll.

"I'm hearing so many people giving their time," said Martha Hood, referring to the library and public works employees who have vowed to volunteer for the day. "Why can't some of these police officers give their time?"

Robert Nichols told the council the police chief's record of complying with instructions that "not good." He was that it might order only to find that the

'Blue Ribbon' pension group will search for a solution

By Stephen Buel

ALBANY—Mayor Ruth Ganong's proposal for a "Blue Ribbon Committee" to study the city's financially ailing pension fund has been approved by the city council.

The proposal, which is to be drafted by the city attorney into a resolution for formal approval next week, gives the committee a broad charge to assess the fairness of Albany's pension system and suggest changes to modify the system.

As proposed, the committee will have 15 members, 10 appointed by the council and five ex-officio. The ex-officio members will include the city's Finance Director as well as representatives from the pension board, the Albany Firefighters Association, the Peace Officers Association and the Charter Review Committee.

Over the wishes of the Albany Firefighters Association, which has appointed Frank Westphal to the committee, the council decided to make the committee's ex-officio members non-voting. The Firefighters Association had asked that ex-officio members be given a vote.

The committee is empowered to take a sweeping look at Albany's pension system for retired employees. The pension system is thought by many to be exceedingly generous to pensioners in many areas. Last month the council enacted a $303,000, one-year property tax to pay for a of the fund's operation.

One of the tasks the committee has been instructed to perform is a comparison of benefits under the Albany system with benefits under other public and private employee pension systems.

Weekly bingo to aid school they emphasized that the club has many non-athletic goals, and intends to share the hoped-for wealth with a variety of school programs.

It was originally proposed that the school district loan the booster club enough money for the furniture, a storage container and the first night's winnings, a total of about $10,000. The board approved the loan, conditional upon its legality, in a four-to-one vote. Peggy Thomsen cast the lone negative vote.

But after conferring with the district's attorneys, Superintendent of Schools Stephen Goldstone concluded that the district should not provide money for a venture as chancy as pot money.

"It seemed like a good idea at the time," Goldstone said last Friday. "But checking with our legal counsel, that was something we were advised to stay clear of."

Asked if the booster club could privately raise the $4,000 for the first game pot, booster club member Dorothy Brown told the board, "It's not an impossibility. It's just something else we'd have to do."

After Goldstone's decision not to provide the money, Hoyle said ar-

Albany residents work together

I checked with the city offices responsible for the areas involved, all of which enthusiastically supported the idea of such public participation in keeping our city as attractive as possible.

Public Works staff report that the greatest need for maintaining clean-looking streets is for residents to keep the parking strip and gutter in front of their houses free of weeds and litter. Many of the blocks in the city have tall weeds growing in the parking strip, which makes the area look ugly no matter how nice the neighboring houses appear.

Another problem is that the sweeper truck that used to clean the gutters weekly is now used so seldom that silt builds up at the curb, encouraging weed growth (and of course litter accumulates as well). Residents are requested to park their cars off the street when sweeping days are announced to help with this problem.

Citizens are also asked to help keep the catch basins at the street corners free of trash. Many of them are not connected to the sewer lines, and such litter will simply build up at that location. Neighbors near the corners could "adopt" those locations and check them periodically to make sure they are clear.

The Parks and Recreation office says that litter in the park areas is a continuing problem. People who live near Memorial, Terrace, Middle School, Key Route Strip and BART Strip Parks can help out by patrolling those areas when necessary (particularly after weekends and holidays) and clearing litter (city staff caution residents not to attempt cleaning up the Buchanan Street dividing strip, as the high volume of fast traffic on that street is too dangerous to allow such volunteer activity).

We can all help, of course, by making sure that we deposit our own litter in the proper receptacles (or take it back with us) when using the parks.

At this time of year weeds are a particular problem around the perimeter of many park areas. Again, the neighbors can perform a valuable service by clearing them (remember, it's easy and fun when many get together to do it!).

The serious gardeners out there, if they wish, can use their abilities too. The planted areas could benefit from some skilled attention to help in this way should call the Parks at 644-8514.

School district personnel would welcome in keeping up the school landscape. There is only one full-time person in school landscaping in the city (who's amazing job!) and more help is needed.

As with the park areas, litter and weeds are the most common problem, and a committee can join together to clear them. The area around and in front of the Middle School of those needing attention.

Longer-term aid can be provided by joining in planning projects (see the committee on the Marin Avenue side of the Main who can donate to the ongoing tree-planting project).

Residents can also keep an eye on announcements of occasional Saturday cleanups, coordinated by volunteers. Areas around strip, City Hall and the parks have been citizens in recent months.

The above suggestions are only some that can all help keep our city pleasant and readers can come up with and help ways. By working together as neighbors can all assist in keeping Albany a city proud of.

Writer's cramp

In the summer rain

By ROBERTA ALEXANDER

It was a rainy day in the islands, a summer rain, but persistent. Rain is not especially noteworthy in Washington, but it is always a disappointment to the sailing people. In the gray morning drizzle, the sailboats sat listlessly at their moorings.

The waitress in the coffee shop, a sweet-faced 19 with a blond braid hanging to her waist, glanced sympathetically at the full tables. Yellow slickers overflowing chair backs, the boaters sat with coffee, some on their fourth refill. The ashtrays were full.

Conversations were about places the boaters had been in better weather: "if I had known the dock fees at Rosario's were so high..." "and on the north side of the channel there's a rock..." "...a great restaurant, but the waiter told me..."

A group of locals, ensconced at the table nearest the kitchen, talked about the economy: "...so the job only lasted two days..." "but then his backing fell through..." Their ashtrays were also full.

My hair frizzing in the damp, I climbed the hill behind the coffee shop. There was a gift shop, closed this morning, and on its covered porch was an armchair. Half-hidden in the building's shadows, I settled myself with the crossword puzzle from the Post-Intelligencer.

Not many people were out, but a few did appear, attracted by the gift shop's decorated windows. Amazingly, many seemed to take the fact that it was closed as a personal affront. "How can they do this to me?" and "why does this always happen to me?" were the most frequent comments.

A boating family, sneaker-clad, climbed the hill to the gift shop. The mother, in the lead, was wearing yellow pants. Her daughter, about 10, was wearing her mother's face, from the thin eyebrows to the pointy chin. The father and the teenage son dragged behind, clearly tired of browsing in stores.

They all ignored me except for their dog, which was the size of a pony. It insisted on nuzzling me, and was dragged off, in silence, by the little girl.

A noisy VW bus pulled into the parking area. The driver was a young woman wearing a long cotton skirt and felt shoes, the kind I think of as elf shoes. She walked into the little grocery store — didn't those shoes get soaked in the rain? I wondered — and came out with a carton of milk.

Only a few of the larger yachts were out on the water. Three teenagers paddled an orange canoe up to the dock. The climbed out, hauled the canoe up and turned it upside down. Even the bright orange looked dull against the dark green water, the molten gray sky. All the buildings, normally blue-gray, were gray today.

Ten bicyclists, helmeted, their muscular legs pumping rhythmically below their shorts, appeared around the bend in the road. Young and clean-cut, they were on a church-led tour of the islands. Later I came upon two of them smoking. I was surprised; they seemed a health-conscious crew, people who cared enough about their bodies to get into shape for a long bicycle trip.

Next came a late model car with local plates, driven by a plump woman with a baby, well-swaddled in pink. She was accompanied by an older couple, perhaps visiting in-laws. They looked in all the gift shop windows to the running commentary of the older woman: "My, that's a cute little doll, isn't it. And look at those colored maps, they look real pretty. Oh, I'd like to look at those bracelets."

The younger woman was silent until she came to the door with its "Closed" sign. "Well, my stars," she said, the first person I had ever heard use that expression.

I watched a middle-aged man stride out of the grocery store down the hill, a newspaper tucked under his arm. Although he was wearing jeans and a plaid wool shirt, he walked like an urban businessman late to a meeting.

By 11 a.m. the rain stopped and a weak sun began to dry up the puddles. I checked my newspaper; I'd done a third of the crossword — enough to satisfy my intellectual pride. I stuffed the paper into my bag, put on my sunglasses, and strolled off the porch.

School budget: not ba

By STEPHEN BUEL

ALBANY — Superintendent of Schools Stephen Goldstone has presented the Board of Education with a slightly healthier "First Final Budget" for the next fiscal year, reflecting a $170,000 beginning of year increase.

"Overall we are expecting an income of slightly less than last year," Goldstone said, "but due to our attempt to bring in a little more income, we are starting with a bit of a reserve."

However, Goldstone cautioned against assuming that discovery of the extra money would put the school district in a much better financial position than before.

"Our budget income shows no increase," he said. "We're badly hit, but what's helping us is the ending balance from last year that we're bringing over."

"We have a lot of fixed costs," he added, "and costs go up every year, even if we don't have an increase. Over 70 percent of our budget is in salaries. Employee salaries will not keep up with inflation."

Much of the additional revenue is a start-up of MacGregor High School, the district's new vocational school. Goldstone said operations will bring the school district additional state money for students.

"That was a major source of additional revenue," he said.

The extra money in the balance has been allocated to two accounts, deferred maintenance and appropriations for contingencies.

ergy, though she doesn't look it."

"A lot of her energy is internal," she said. "When she is working, she releases that energy and feels better and sleeps better."

The garden also gives trainees a chance to talk to each other and something to talk about, she said. Many people don't know what to say to each other, but they can talk easily about their common job.

And on a practical level, it gives them work skills. The program is funded partly by federal, state and local grants, and partly from the proceeds of the nursery. Thyberg stressed that the nursery was not just an experiment in mental health.

"It's a retail nursery like any other nursery," she said.

The store is open Mondays, Thursdays from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

According to Rose-Bolognesi, the store is just like any young business, and we welcome customers. We feel the business is a really important part of our program and we feel it going."

The Rubicon program drew its name from the Italian. When Julius Caesar crossed the Rubicon, he said, "now there's no turning back." "That's the whole philosophy of our program," she said. "People move on and there's no turning back."

Historical exhibit planned on old Chinese-American theaters

The Chinese Historical Society of America is preparing to exhibit a treasure trove of 300 newly discovered photographs of the productions and actors and actresses of the old Great China Cantonese Opera Theater in San Francisco's Chinatown of the 1920s and 1930s.

Research for the exhibition is uncovering the whole history of the Chinese American theater from 1852, when the first Cantonese Opera troupe arrived in the West at the height of the Gold Rush, until the present day. This will be the first major exhibition devoted to the main aspect of cultural life of the first, second and third generations of the Chinese American community.

The CHSA project staff is headed by Jack Chen of El Cerrito, author of "The Chinese of America," and Wylie Wong, a director of the Jehu-Wong art gallery in San Francisco.

The National Endowment for the Humanities, the San Francisco and Zellerbach Foundations are helping to fund the project. The Bank of America will present the interpretive exhibition in July, 1983 as part of its art program in the Concourse Gallery at its corporate world headquarters in San Francisco.

headquarters in San Francisco.

Since the photographs were found on a trash dump in Chinatown, they face some difficult problems of identification. It is urgently like to hear from anyone who has seen America's Chinese theaters in San Francisco or in the United States. Their address is 937 Lombard Street, El Cerrito, 94530; 524-7287.

Park Dept. preparing day care program

ALBANY — The Albany Park Recreation Department is sponsoring a day care program for children through ten years of age.

The program will be held at Memorial House, 1375 Portland Ave. Hours will be 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. for children dismissed from school at above times. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on vacations, Monday through Friday.

Activities include arts and crafts, cooking, sports, library programs and excursions. Crafts include clay, pottery and sculpture, art work, pyroclay projects, wood crafts and kit crafts.

The program will extend hours in the summer to 6 p.m. if enough people are interested. Cost per month from 3-6 p.m. and $65 per month 6-9 p.m.

Registrations are now being taken at the Albany and Rec Dept., 1000 San Pablo Ave., or call for further information. The program will start September 1. Limited enrollment.

Wanted: art for the Stroll

ALBANY — The newly formed Albany Art Committee will sponsor an art show in front of the library during the Solano Stroll.

The Stroll is scheduled Sunday, Sept. 19, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Albany artists and craftspeople interested in playing their work should contact Ronnie Dineen at 3720 (Albany Library, Tuesday and Wednesday 10-5).

The Phils go all the way

The Little Leaguers' second winning season

By KEITH EASTHOUSE

ALBANY — With all the trouble he's been having in Oakland this season, A's manager Billy Martin might be glad to know that in the Albany Little League at least, "Billy Ball" is alive and well.

Its two practitioners, manager Joe Pinguelo and coach Bryan Rosano, used Martin-style aggressiveness and daring to lead their Senior League (ages 13-15) "Phils" team to its second straight title. In fact, throughout the recently completed season, fans used the term "Philly Ball" to describe the team's hard-hitting, base-stealing kind of play.

The nickname was well-earned. The Phils beat one team 38-8 and on more than one occasion scored close to 20 runs. They had four players whose batting averages were over .500 and two that hit better than .600.

Moreover, Pinguelo, 24, and Rosano, 22, said the frequent use of unorthodox tactics such as double-steals and bunt-and-runs were a primary reason for the team's 13-2 record and their finishing in the top four out of 15 East Bay teams at the Tournament of Champions, held last month in Concord.

"I go by Billy Martin's strategy," Pinguelo said. "I'll take chances. If it's a tie score, I'll do something."

"Basically, at the beginning of a game, I want to score a run right off the bat. I'll usually have my best runner go to the plate first. If he gets on, I'll have him steal second. Then I'll have the next batter bunt and the man on second will head for home. He won't even look for the ball."

Pinguelo and Rosano grew up in Albany and went through school and Little League together. Pinguelo wrestled for Albany High School and now sells real estate. Rosano is a machinist. As a student, he competed for Albany High in baseball.

The two young coaches have led the Phils for the past three years. In their first season, Pinguelo and Rosano had more than a few difficulties.

"It was my first team in the senior league and I decided to draft the younger players (13-year-olds), so we'd have a chance to build a team," Pinguelo said. "Since we played against teams that all had older players, we only won one game and lost 14. I felt bad about losing, but I knew we were going to be back next year."

And how. The Phils turned things completely around last season, beating out five other teams for the league championship while winning 14 games and losing only one (and just like this year's team, they finished in the top four at the Tournament of Champions). With the players a year older, all aspects of the game were improved upon, especially the hitting. A few coaching techniques may also have had something to do with the success.

"The most common hitting problem is that the batter will step away from the pitch when he swings," Rosano said. "To prevent that, in practice we lay a bat behind the batter's feet when he's at the plate. If he steps away from the ball, he's going to fall down. He's forced to stride into the ball, like he's supposed to. We also put a glove on top of the batter's back foot to prevent him from lifting his foot when he swings."

Rosano said another common hitting weakness is to want to hit the ball too hard. This leads to the bat being swung in an upward direction instead of on the level. The result is pop-fliers instead of base hits.

To combat the tendency, Rosano and Pinguelo tell their players to swing the bat downward.

"We emphasize that because they end up actually swinging the bat level," Rosano said.

Pinguelo and Rosano had particular success with one player last year named Frank Rice. "At the start of the season, he couldn't hit the ball at all," Pinguelo said. "By the middle of the season, he was putting darts in the fences."

Another thing the two young coaches credit their success to is an emphasis on hard work and discipline. During the six weeks before the season opener this past May, the Phils practiced three hours a day, three times a week.

"In practice, we have a long infield session," Rosano said. "Each kid gets up there and we'll hit ten grounders to him in a row. They've got to come up throwing each time too. For every error the kid makes, the entire team has to run a lap. You better believe they get their bodies in front of those grounders."

Despite their desire for success, Pinguelo and Rosano said that winning isn't everything. In fact, Pinguelo said the most memorable game of the year was the season-ending loss to Pittsburgh in the third round of the Tournament of Champions.

"Every player on the team gave 200 percent in that game," Pinguelo said of the 5-4 loss. "Every kid hustled. They all stuck behind each other. It could have gone either way."

An important aspect of little league is the amount of playing time each team member gets.

"Each player plays at least one complete inning," Pinguelo said. "And if they only played one inning in a game, they'll start in the following one."

Delma Wilson, mother of pitcher and shortstop David Wilson, 15, said Pinguelo and Rosano "were fair with the kids and with how they played them."

"They let all the kids play," she said.

Her son, who played on the Albany High school baseball team last spring as a freshman, said two coaches make a point to emphasize the importance of playing time.

"They won't yell at you if you make a mistake," he said. "One game we were behind by nine runs. The coaches kept telling us to keep up the effort, telling everybody we could win. We ended up about ten runs."

Perhaps one reason for the Phils' success is an age between the coaches and the players. Catcher and left-fielder Ron Kramer, 16, said Pinguelo and Rosano "relate to the kids real well."

"Most players look at them not as coaches, but as friends," said Kramer, one of the team's best hitters. "When I think about them, I think they're like brothers."

Pinguelo added that "our number one goal is a really good time."

Another thing Pinguelo and Rosano said is to instill the proper attitude in their players.

"We tell the players to always be the best they can be," Pinguelo said. "We tell them to look to the future, that a career is important."

COMBING THE COAST II

SANTA CRUZ TO CARMEL

A Lively Guide to Beaches, Backroads, Parks, Historic Sites and Towns

Combing the Coast II is Albany author Ruth Jackson's second volume on the fascinations of the California coastline. The book is published by Chronicle Books, covers from Santa Cruz to Carmel.

Pot luck with Olga Bier

As I was saying

Sum — or Heart's Delight — are undisputedly Chinese snacks which are growing in popularity here as palates appreciative of the special flavors of Chinese foods.

These little tidbits of chopped meats, fish, and vegetables wrapped in dough are beautifully suited for entertaining. They are ever so delicious but not too filling. They can be made ahead and frozen, making them easy to do — ahead entertaining.

With six you get egg roll

It's an old gag, but I say do whatever you need to get some of these crispy golden rolls.

Generally deep fried, they must be eaten hot from the fryer. They tend to get greasy if allowed to sit. But I have found them with filo dough and baked them and they are easy to do this way. They also are not as greasy as the fried version.

When prepared with the ready-made egg roll wrappers you buy in the produce section of your supermarket, you can fry them in oil or shortening at 375 degrees. But maybe you would like to try the filo kind. Freeze before or after baking. (I prefer to freeze before.)

Egg Rolls in Filo

- 3 T. oil or shortening
- ½ c. chopped shrimp
- ½ c. lean pork, chopped in very small dices
- 2 med. stalks celery, minced
- ¾ c. shredded Napa cabbage
- 4 green onions, minced
- ½ cup chopped mushrooms
- ½ c. minced water chestnuts, well drained
- ½ c. fresh bean sprouts
- 1 (or more) cloves garlic, finely minced
- dash of sugar, salt, and powdered ginger

- 4 T. soy sauce
- 1 T. cornstarch
- Filo sheets
- Melted, unsalted butter

Heat oil. Add pork and cook until it turns light colored. Add shrimp and fry together for a minute or so. Add celery, cabbage, onions, and garlic and stir — fry briefly. Add mushrooms, water chestnuts, sprouts, and seasonings. Continue to stir — fry several minutes more. Sprinkle with cornstarch and stir in soy. Cook one minute and cool.

Lay out one sheet of Filo (longest side from left to right) and brush with melted butter. (Be sure to keep remaining Filo leaves covered with a damp towel to keep from drying out.)

Place several spoonful of filling evenly spaced at the bottom edge and cut in 4 strips with tip of knife.

Fold over a small flap on each side and roll up (looks like a small burrito). Place on greased sheet, brush with butter and bake 375 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden brown and crisp. Serve with hot mustard.

If you use the egg roll dough squares instead of the Filo, wrap spoonful of the filling in the dough. Be sure ends are turned in to keep filling and juices in and fry in hot fat. Drain on paper towels and serve immediately. If making ahead to freeze, do not take time to thaw when needed. Just bake or fry a bit longer.

A Yank Sing Special

At the banquet at Yank Sing which I described in my last Pot Luck, the chef generously has sent his recipe for Golden Coin BBQ Pork. This is very special pork dish takes its name from the well-known Cantonese specialty of roasting slices of chicken livers or meats on skewers and when they are thoroughly cooked, they are served with the hole in the middle of the meat, reminding us of the traditional Chinese coins.

Arms race film shown

The morality of the arms race is the subject of a Community Education Committee program, Thursday, Sept. 2.

The program, from 7-9 p.m., will be at St. Leo's School Auditorium, 4238 Howe St., Oakland.

The film, "Neighbors," will be shown, followed by an interfaith panel discussion.

TIMES JOURNAL

Yank Sing Golden Coin Pork

2 lbs. pork butt, sliced about ¼ in. thick Marinade made of:

- 2 t. salt
- 3 T. sugar
- 1 T. minced garlic
- 1 c. dry sherry or Chinese rice wine
- 2 c. ketchup
- 1 T. fresh ginger, minced
- 2 T. bean paste (optional)

Mix pork slices in marinade in a stainless bowl. Let sit for at least four hours or overnight in the refrigerator.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees or prepare a hot BBQ. Layer the slices of pork on long metal skewers. Brown and cook thoroughly on BBQ or on a rack in the oven for about 1 hour.

Serve with slices of plain white bread or hot rolls.

Years ago Sunset Magazine did a piece on making your own Char Siu Bow (rolls filled with pork). The short cut they suggested was to use either frozen bread dough or a roll mix. If you'd like my version of this recipe, send me the usual envelope and I'll enclose several fillings for you to try as well.

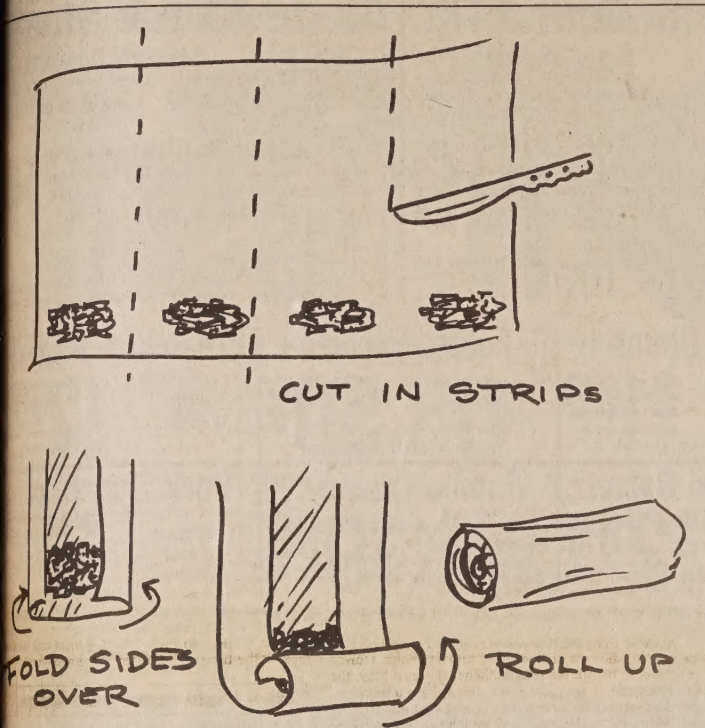

Go alongs

Chinese soups are marvelous. Hers's a quickie to try:

- 2 c. chicken stock (canned or bouillon)
- 1 can stewed tomatoes or 2 diced fresh tomatoes
- 1 small tub of firm tofu
- several chopped green onions

Simmer tomatoes and stock for 8 — 10 minutes until well heated. Cut tofu into small cubes, add to stock, and simmer 5 minutes more. Garnish with onions and serve. Quick, pretty, nourishing, tasty!

BART fares will go up 15 percent next month

BART trips from the West County to San Francisco will cost 30 cents more in about three weeks as a result of a 15-percent rate increase hammered out by the transit district's board of directors last week.

The fare package will raise costs to the system's 185,000 daily users $7 million to $8 million annually, said spokesman Sy Moubier.

The vote on the increase was 8-to-1. Richmond BART Director Nello Bianco voted for it; the lone hold-out was Director Robert Allen.

Richmond riders heading to Montgomery Street station in San Francisco will pay $1.60 for the ride, a 30-cent increase. The same trip will cost El Cerrito Plaza riders $1.50.

The base fare of 50 cents for rides of up to six miles will go up to 60 cents.

Passengers who travel six to 14 miles will pay a 71-cent base fare plus 2.4 cents per mile, while trips of more than 14 miles will cost $1.15 plus 2.4 cents per mile.

A 2-cent-per-minute "scheduled speed component" will be charged for parts of BART trips that go especially quickly because the trains are on a straightaway.

Surcharges on trips through the Transbay Tube and to the Daly City Station will go up 10 cents—to 35 cents and 40 cents respectively.

The board voted to continue the 90-percent discount that senior citizens, disabled people and children receive.

Directors also agreed to investigate the possibility of charging lower rates for passengers who use the system during off-peak hours than for those traveling at peak commute times. The BART staff was directed to come up with a proposal for a four- to six-month trial period sometime in the future for the board to consider.

The vote on the compromise package came after three other packages were proposed, hotly debated and then shot down in the course of the two-hour meeting.

Board president Eugene Garfinkle warned fellow directors debate that they must agree on a fare increase or place the transit district's $285 million capital program in jeopardy. He said BART's ability to sell revenue bonds depends on its raising more money through farebox receipts.

In a separate vote, a $65 million bond sale to pay for new BART cars was approved. Sept. 16 was set as the date of sale.

Despite agreement on that point, however, the directors deadlocked over the question of how much of the fare increase burden should be borne by patrons who travel longer distances.

Director Art Shartsis argued that the current fare structure has built-in inequities that favor outlying patrons and penalize BART riders who live in cities and tend to travel shorter distances.

He said the structure allows outlying residents to ride for 6 cents a mile while short-distance passengers pay 18 cents, more than BART's actual cost per mile.

Director Barclay Simpson, however, said distance riders have to pay for the basic cost of the system and that cost per mile for passengers set at a level that would attract commuters otherwise drive.

"It's a basic tenet of business that you pay for the outlying areas unless you decrease the cost," he said.

He also argued in favor of instituting a variable fare to encourage ridership among people who ordinarily use BART.

The compromise package includes a 15-cent incentive and will also create a $21 ticket for $20 to help reduce costs for regular BART riders.

Shartsis, who played an important role in reaching the final compromise, said he was pleased with the result because it will "rectify a historical wrong" by keeping the cost to short-distance riders lower than the cost to long-distance riders.

Researcher gets grant

The American Cancer Society announced recently that seven scientists at UC-Berkeley have received research grants totalling $476,460. These grants are part of $4.5 million in new research awards.

Dr. W. Zachary Cande of Albany, Department of Botany, received $65,000, a one-year grant.

Ombudsman training set

Ombudsmen are trained volunteers who visit nursing homes to help residents resolve grievances and obtain the best care possible.

Beginning Sept. 15, at the Hayward Library, from 6-9 p.m., Citizens for Better Nursing Home Care will sponsor a tuition-free class for prospective ombudsmen. The class will meet every Wednesday through Oct. 30.

The class will be taught by Marilyn Saunders and Harold Bennett. Completion of the course will lead to a certificate.

To register, or for more information, call 465-1065.

Library closes

On Wednesday, Aug. 25, the Central Library and all branches of the Contra Costa County Library System will be closed for two hours from 10 a.m. to noon in order that all library employees may attend a special annual staff meeting.

Movement class planned

An intergenerational class on movement, life events and creative arts begins Monday, Sept. 13.

The class meets from 10-11:30 a.m. at North Berkeley Senior Center (at Hearst and Grove Streets).

Instructor is Hilari Hauptman. The free class is sponsored by Vista College.

For more information call 841-8431 Ext. 51.

Seniors set fall yard sale

Plans have been made by the advisory board of the Richmond Annex Senior Center to hold a yard sale and bazaar, at 5801 Huntington Ave. on Oct. 2.

The sale, planned for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., will feature needlepoint, paintings and crafts, all done by participants in the center's classes. Refreshments also may be purchased.

Brunch will be served by the volunteers of the Richmond Annex Senior Center every Sunday from 10-12. Donation, $1.50. For information, call 526-3553.

The center is open weekdays, 9-4.

LHS sets fall classes

Science has become such an important part of everyday life that no one is too young or too old to learn more.

This fall, the Lawrence Hall of Science offers nearly 60 after-school and evening classes for tots through adults in astronomy, biology, chemistry, computer science, mathematics and physics.

Five new classes are: Astronomy and Stargazing for Kids Under Eighty, Food Chemistry, Exploration in the Field, PASCAL Computer Programming and Intermediate Assembly Language Programming.

All classes begin the week of Sept. 27. Fall enrollments will be taken beginning Sept. 7; call 642-5132 for a free brochure.

Two killed in sailing accident

By NORMAN COLBY

El Cerrito man and his sailing companion were killed when their 16-foot catamaran capsized on the water near the Berkeley Marina.

Johnson, of El Cerrito, who owned the boat, and J. Corbett, 35, of Alameda, co-workers at the time, were found washed to the overboard about 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

The men apparently died from overnight exposure to the cold water, according to authorities. Autopsies were scheduled for this morning by the County Coroner's Office.

The boat was found dead lashed in sitting positions to the green boat's trampoline — which connects the two hulls — after taking the boat from the marina at 4 p.m. Saturday night and being seen for the first time about five hours later near Angel Island.

A coroner's spokesman there said the men could have died of hypothermia caused by prolonged exposure to the chilly waters and cool night winds.

On the average, a person can survive in the water of that temperature for no more than an hour.

Coast Guard officials said a search was conducted Saturday night after a report was received of an overturned catamaran.

The report was submitted by a sailor who told Coast Guard officials that the wind was too strong for him to approach the boat. It appeared to the searchers that this report referred to another capsized catamaran reported at 5 p.m., Saturday, which had been towed to shore.

A Coast Guard spokesman said that they stopped the search after an hour based on the lack of any reports of missing catamarans and the fact that many reports of capsized boats are false alarms.

Solano merchants plan annual stroll

Plans for the 1982 Solano Stroll, scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 19, are moving forward.

Signup sheets have been delivered to all Solano Avenue businesses and special invitations have been sent to community and charitable groups so that they can participate in the Stroll for fund-raising and informational purposes.

Organizers are negotiating with the city of Albany for street closure. A parade is also planned.

Volunteers to handle a variety of activities on Stroll day are needed. Anyone interested is asked to stop in at Michael's Liquors, 1495 Solano, and leave their name and phone number.

Urban house plans self-help workshops

The Integral Urban House in Berkeley offers a full summer of Saturday workshops on ways to put the sun to work for you inside and out.

Saturday tours are at 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. $3 for adults and 50 cents for kids and seniors covers tour and 1 p.m. workshop. Call 525-1150 for more information. Or drop by Tuesday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., to 1516 5th St., Berkeley, 94701.

Workshops include: Aug. 28, Natural Cooling for Houses and Apartments; Sept. 4, Organic Hydroponics; Sept. 11, Ways to Preserve Food; Sept. 18, Woodstoves; and Sept. 25, Solar Water Heating.

Cancer study needs volunteers

EL CERRITO — Black, caucasian and Oriental volunteer researchers are needed in West Contra Costa by the American Cancer Society, which is preparing to launch Cancer Prevention Study II — the largest human study ever undertaken to determine the effect of lifestyles and environment have on the risk of contracting cancer and other diseases.

After a training session in August, each researcher will be asked to distribute confidential questionnaires to 10 families in September. Each family selected must include one member age 45 or older, and favored will be families who are likely to remain in the area for the next six years.

Those interested in becoming researchers should visit the office at 10290 San Pablo Ave., or call 525-6801.

AHS starts football

ALBANY — Football practice starts at Albany High School's Cougar Field on Monday, Aug. 23. Monday will be the first of the 10 "double days" with a practice in the morning and one in the afternoon.

Letters were sent out to all students who signed up for football in June. The letters explain the procedures that are to be taken prior to Aug. 23 and cover details such as insurance, physicals, equipment, etc.

Any young man who will be a student at Albany High School in September and who missed the sign up or is new to the district and wants to play, should call Coach Bob Hoyle at 525-0421 as soon as possible.

Clothing art shown

"Image on Clothing" is an exhibition of recent work by artists Birgitta Olsen and Joy Stockdale at Pacific Basin School of Textile Arts, 1659 San Pablo Ave. in Berkeley.

Hours are Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 1-4 p.m. The exhibit closes Sept. 17.

Stockdale makes silk garments which give the appearance of hand painting. Her designs incorporate floral, geometric and landscape forms.

Olsen is showing crocheted vests and knitted sweaters, mostly of animal fiber which she spins and in some cases dyes.

Rise early, meet bikers

ALBANY — On Aug. 28, a group of bicyclists will arrive at the Albany City Hall at 6:30 a.m.

These bicyclists are part of the "America's Freedom Ride 1982," which is a 9,500-mile continuous bicycle journey through all 50 states. The ride commemorates the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

The bicyclists will be greeted and presented with a proclamation and then continue on their journey.

Class set on parent aid

Parent Stress Service of Alameda County is offering a 30-hour volunteer training class for seven days beginning Sept. 9, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Volunteers will learn about child abuse, telephone crisis counseling, parenting skills, child development and related fields.

For more information about Parent Stress Service training program, call 893-5444.

Urbanscapes

Albany photographer Felix Rivera calls his work "Urbanscapes," and describes them as "a view of the ephemeral." His subjects are represented within their environments: "my images reflect a concern with universal elements of the urban condition and its ever changing patterns and beauty," he says. His work includes the view of the Berkeley BART station, right, and the boy at bottom. Rivera, 43, is shown at bottom right. His work was on display this summer at the the Berkeley Art Coop, and will be shown this fall at San Francisco State University. Another exhibit is planned for the spring at the Iris Too gallery.

Eating Hawaiian in East Bay kitchen

By OLGA BIER

Dining in Hawaii, by Maxine Saltinstall, Peanut Butter Publishing, Mercer Island, Washington, paperback $7.95.

Based on the premise that not all of us can afford to dine out, Peanut Butter Publishing has prepared a series of Dining In — gourmet cookbooks, featuring recipes from the better restaurants in the great cities of the United States. The chefs and the restaurants are all well-known, the recipes are very special, and some are even never-before-revealed trade secrets.

In this edition, Dining in Hawaii, recipes from L'Auberge in Kailua, the Columbia Inn in Honolulu, the Kapalua Bay Hotel in Maui, the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel on the Big Island of Hawaii, and the Pearl City Tavern are a few of the restaurants featured. The sections of the book are divided by a brief history of the restaurant and a complete menu, with all recipes following. I guess it would be too much to wish for color illustrations of the food or the locale, but no doubt printing costs would be prohibitive. Anyway, the recipes read in glorious full color for the home chef who wishes to recreate dining out in Hawaii.

From the gracious old Willows in Honolulu, here's their famous

CREAMED AVOCADO SOUP KAMEHAMEHA

- 1 large ripe avocado
- 1 Maui (or sweet Texas) onion
- 1 qt. half-and-half
- 2 T. sherry
- 2 T. Ajinomoto (MSG — optional)
- salt, tabasco to taste
- 1. Peel and slice avocado.
- 2. Peel onion and cut into blender. Puree with avocado until smooth.
- 3. While continuing to puree, add half-and-half slowly, ly, followed by sherry and spices.

- 4. Strain and chill. Serve in very cold iced bowls.

FRESH SHRIMP CURRY

- 36 to 48 medium-sized shrimp
- 1 T. peanut oil
- 3 oz. white wine or dry vermouth
- salt and pepper to taste
- 3 T. curry powder
- Willows Curry Sauce, heated (see below)

- 1. Wash, shell and devein shrimp. Slice in half.
- 2. Marinate 15 to 30 minutes in oil, wine, salt and pepper.
- 3. Put curry powder in non-stick skillet over medium-low burner and heat slowly.
- 4. Remove shrimp from marinade with slotted spoon and put in skillet with dry curry powder.
- 5. Saute about 5 minutes or until shrimp turn pink, turning several times.
- 6. Add to hot curry sauce and serve.

HOT CURRY SAUCE WILLOWS

- 6 T. butter
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 slices fresh ginger root, minced
- 3 small onions, minced
- 1 T. salt
- 1 T. sugar
- 3 T. curry powder
- 8-10 T. flour
- 2 qts. coconut milk
- 1. Melt butter in heavy saucepan. Do not brown.
- 2. Stir in garlic, ginger and onion. Add salt, sugar, curry and flour. Mix thoroughly with a wooden spoon.
- 3. Dribble in coconut milk a little at a time, stirring to a smooth thickness. Simmer 20 minutes.

4. Allow to stand several hours, strain before serving. This curry sauce is also marvelous served with chicken. As one of the 23 cities in the series, this new book comes at a time when many travelers might have enjoyed dining at some of these notable restaurants on their Island vacations, and what a lovely way to recapture the Aloha spirit than to fix the foods from these famous Hawaiian dining rooms.

Wardrobe works will focus on color

EL CERRITO — There will be a two hour color wardrobe workshop sponsored by the El Cerrito Resource Center, intended to help people learn how to plan their wardrobe for their individual needs.

Topics covered will be: knowing one's color, based on personal color harmony, how to choose color clothing, what styles look best and how to coordinate wardrobe.

Instructor Pat Kwan is a color and wardrobe consultant with a degree in textiles. Two workshops will be offered at the El Cerrito Community Center, 1552 Solano Ave., El Cerrito, from 10 a.m. to noon and Aug. 26, 6:45-8:45 p.m.

For further information, contact Karen Kwan at 525-6748.

zines (including National Geographic), paperbacks (including fiction, science-fiction, western), recreation-philosophy, science (including physical science, mathematics), social science (anthropology, politics, political science), sports, women, youth and general.

The books this year are some unusual art including full page of beautiful paintings. Special interest in reaching, there are English-English, English-English, English-English dictionaries. For information, call 525-1866.

Knock 'em dead on ballroom floor

ALBANY — Dance instructors Vance and Pauline Teague will be offering fall ballroom-dance lessons for teen and adult couples on Friday evenings.

The classes will begin Friday, Sept. 17 at St. Alban's Episcopal Church Annex, 1501 Washington Ave., from 8 to 10 p.m.

Each class will provide instruction in steps, styling, leading and following, and will present an opportunity to learn and practice simple ballroom dance routines in waltz, foxtrot, swing, cha-cha, tango, rumba and Country-western rhythms.

Emphasis will be on the basics and the enjoyment of dancing to big band sounds. While the classes will be at the beginning level, some previous ballroom dance experience, or the ability to do a simple foxtrot and waltz is recommended.

For further information on registration fees and class dates please call the Albany Adult School office at 526-6811 or the instructors at 527-6594.

Asian art auction planned for fall

EL CERRITO — The sixth annual Asian-American Art Auction, a benefit exhibit and sale of works by Asian-American artists from northern California, will be held Sunday, Oct. 3 from 1 to 10 p.m. at the El Cerrito Community Center, 7007 Mooser Lane.

The more than 100 art pieces include Japanese brush paintings, ceramics, sculpture, batik, graphics, and other media.

Some of the artists and their works include sculptures by Ruth Asawa, Harry Koyama and John Toki; oils by Betty Kano; graphics by cartoonist Jack Matsuoka; prints by Michi Itami and Kenji Nanao; watercolors by Bob Sugita, Lewis Suzuki and Wendy Yoshimura; fiber art by Kay Sekimachi; ceramics by Minoru Nojima and Hiroshi Ogawa; and Japanese brush paintings by Hiroshi Sakai.

Viewing time for these pieces will be from 1-7 p.m. Peter Fairbanks from Butterfield and Butterfield Auctioneers will begin the bidding at 7 p.m.

Honorary auctioneers include Judge Ken Kawaichi, superior court judge of Alameda County; Jean Siri, mayor of El Cerrito; Ben Takeshita, boardmember of Sakura Kai; and Ron Wakabayashi, national director of the Japanese-American Citizens League (JACL).

Viewing time for the "silent auction," a separate auction, will be from 1-6 p.m. The silent auction offers gift certificates, gourmet items, dinners, professional services, ceramics and other articles.

The art auction pieces will be displayed during the month of September at Golden State Sanwa Bank in San Francisco; California First Bank in San Francisco and Oakland; Imperial Saving and Loan Bank in El Cerrito; Mechanics Bank at the Hilltop, Mira Vista and Pinole branches; and the Sumitomo Bank in Albany and Oakland.

Sakura Kai and East Bay Japanese for Action co-sponsor the Asian-American art auction to raise funds for the Japanese-speaking elderly of Alameda and Contra Costa Counties. Sakura Kai and EBJA are non-profit, tax-exempt community organizations which provide social services and recreational programs for the elderly.

Tickets are available at 1908 Berkeley Way in Berkeley and at the door. Call 848-3560 or 526-8580 for more information.

Birth made easy new class is planned

A new class in childbirth training will be held every day, Sept. 18 at Richmond Hospital.

The eight sessions will be held every day from 9:30 until noon, and will end on Monday, Sept. 27.

The classes will be taught by Ann Stanton, a certified childbirth instructor. Students should be in the third trimester of pregnancy, and should be a person planning to serve as coach at the birth. The $30 per couple fee for the classes is refundable if delivery takes place at Richmond Hospital. Call Nora Stanton, R.N., for information or to make a place reservation.

Teaching neighbors how to resolve their disputes

When you need to know your rights

By PENELOPE KRAMER

ALBANY — Your neighbor's all-night parties leave you staring at the ceiling until dawn, your landlord has taken to browsing through your diary when you're not home and your new car has been in the shop for 300 miles.

You'd like to take legal action, but don't know your rights, and given the price of a lawyer, you figure the cure is worse than the disease.

There's an alternative. Starting September 15, the Albany Senior Center will give free legal advice to area residents of all ages on Wednesday nights at the Albany Counseling Clinic in the Albany Senior Center, 846 West Ave.

Smith said the clinic was his way of doing something for the '60s and the '70s, people were trying to change the world, but now things have settled back and it's the 'me generation' or the 'me generation'.

Smith said, "Now things have settled back and it's the 'me generation' or the 'me generation'."

leave, the enraged non-customer wanted to sue him for false advertising.

"He said they had called themselves 'your friendly local Datsun dealer,' Smith said, "and he wanted to sue them for not being friendly."

"I told him I didn't want to take the case."

If he can't solve a problem, Smith said, he will direct the questioner to the person or agency who can.

"I try to encourage people to work out problems between themselves without suing each other," he said, "but there comes a time when you've got to sue people or they won't take you seriously."

"If both sides knew the law there wouldn't be a dispute," he said, "but people don't know their rights."

Smith, 34, has pursued an activist career appropriate to a member of the '60s generation. After graduating from the University of Buffalo in 1969, he joined Teacher Corps, and taught in West Virginia.

West Virginia was "not like New York, I'll tell you that," the Long Island native said. The mountain people were "very untrusting of strangers, but after their kids got to like us, they liked us."

After returning to University of Buffalo for his master's degree, he taught progressive education there for six years, moved to New Zealand for two months to join a kibbutz-like community called an "Ohu," and, after that program was cancelled by the government, came to Berkeley and organized tours of the South Pacific.

A year later, Smith decided to leave his travel business to become a lawyer.

"The gas crisis hit, air fares doubled, and (the travel business) wasn't a challenge any more," he said. "Law school seemed challenging."

"I guess I was bored."

"I was also tired of getting screwed over by organizations and bureaucracies," he said. "I think that's mainly why I went — to see what my rights were. I was tired of seeing my friends getting screwed over too."

He graduated from Golden Gate Law School ("a very humane place, very unlike 'The Paper Chase'"), went into corporate law for a year, and last year started his own practice in Berkeley.

Smith decided to start the free service when he realized how little people know about the law.

"I get a lot of calls from people who want to know what their rights are," Smith said. "A lot of these are very simple questions, and a lot of them have very simple answers."

"People don't even know if they have a big problem or a little problem — or no problem," he said.

Volunteers can help stop soil erosion

The U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) is looking for volunteers to help stop soil erosion and solve other natural resource problems.

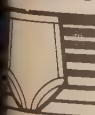

The U.S. Department of Agriculture agency needs volunteers to help SCS and local resource conservation districts do more conservation work done while keeping federal funds down, according to Gene Andreucetti, SCS state administrator for California.

Volunteers can perform a wide range of services on a part-time or full-time basis — such as helping on field trips and layout of conservation practices, working with conservation education programs in schools and clubs, and high school students for soil and land judging projects, building or using outdoor learning areas with other groups.

Volunteers will not be paid, but will receive job training and experience as well as legal protection and insurance for work-related injuries.

A new volunteer program was authorized by the National Fire and Food Act of 1981. Those interested in volunteering should write: Conservation Volunteer, P.O. Box 100, Washington, D.C. 20013.

1982 FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Total Assets up 21.5%!

These days, it's hard to find any good news about the economy. But the last two years could hardly look better from where we stand. In fact, everything is looking up. Deposits are up 21.1%. Capital is up 20.5%.

A bank's equity should equal at least 5% of its total assets. Mechanics Bank equity ratio is 9.7%—almost twice the minimum acceptable level according to the FDIC.

In fact, over the past four years, our total capital is up an impressive 46.1%! And our assets have grown a healthy 34.3% to more than $361 million.

To make sure this trend continues safely upward, we keep a high percentage of our assets in liquid, well-secured investments. We also steer clear of foreign investments and highly speculative loans.

After all, we've been growing with the East Bay for 75 years. And we want to keep our customers' money safer and closer to home.

Mechanics Bank is strong and getting stronger. That means a stronger local economy. And that's good news for all of us.

ALBANY

Police report the following activity for the two weeks ending August 22

August 9

Olga Eriman Garner was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants after he was observed driving erratically. Garner has been detained for the offense three times before.

August 10

Beverly Hanna Monroe, 18, and Rhonda Ellen Sorenson, 23, of Vallejo, were arrested by University police and charged with theft and receiving stolen property. Monroe was additionally charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants. Bail for Monroe was set at $4,000. Sorenson's bail was set at $3,500. Both were taken to court.

Ralph Jacobs, 26, of Berkeley, was arrested for his part in a domestic argument. Jacobs was allegedly observed by witnesses challenging bystanders and battering his wife. Once he was arrested, however, his wife declined to press charges, and Jacobs was released.

A 17-year-old Richmond male was arrested for suspected robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in the case of Robert A. Sacks. The suspect signed a confession when he was taken to police headquarters.

August 11

Police have a suspect in at least five of the several burglaries which have plagued the Gateview condominium complex. They have requested a warrant for the suspect's arrest.

A business in the 900 block of Kains was robbed of $174 from an unguarded safe on the premises. There were no signs of forced entry.

A 26-inch 10-speed Azuki bicycle was stolen from a house in the 500 block of Masonic. The bike was white with a black seat. It was valued at $185.

August 13

Two Albany residents were the near-victims of a pair of unidentified "gypsy-like" women who pretended they needed a doctor. In both cases, the respondents, residents of the 900 block of Stannage and the 700 block of Talbot respectively, were talked into allowing an unidentified woman into their house in order to call a doctor. Once inside, the unidentified Asian woman in her mid-20's attempted to distract the potential victim, while her partner, an unidentified Asian woman in her mid-40's, attempted to break through the house. In neither incident was property reported missing.

A red 27-inch Motobecane 10-speed was stolen when a bike was cut and it was taken from a bike rack. The bike was worth about $250.

August 14

A car parked in the 600 block of San Pablo was burglarized of a pair of Sanyo auto speakers, a tape case and some tapes, valued at $355.

August 15

A rash of BB-gun vandalism erupted, as residents of the 1000 blocks of Cornell and Stannage and elsewhere in the city reported that their windows were shot out.

Two cars parked in a lot on the 600 block of San Pablo were broken into and relieved of their car stereos. The stereos broke in through the vent windows. The stereos were both of unknown make and value.

August 16

Three young boys, ages 14, 12 and 11, from Woodland Hills, Albany and Oakland respectively, were arrested after they were found prying off the rear screen of an apartment window at the Gateview Condominium complex. They were released into the custody of their parents.

Several young boys narrowly escaped capture after they were observed kicking in the slats of a picket fence in someone's yard. The unidentified white juveniles, roughly 10 years of age, ran when they saw a police officer. Hoy Wong, of El Cerrito, reports he was the victim of a burglary at 1032 Masonic. There are no suspects.

A bike worth $25 was stolen from a yard in the 500 block of Madison.

August 18

A group of unidentified juveniles overturned a portable toilet at the corner of Brighton and Key Route. It is not known if the facility was damaged.

August 19

William Lynn Ragle, 24, of Albany, was arrested on suspicion of burglary and petty theft, as well as in connection with some outstanding warrants.

A 17-year-old juvenile male from Richmond was arrested for driving while under the influence of intoxicants and resisting an officer while in the discharge of his duty. He was released to the custody of his father.

A blue 20-inch Schwinn 1-speed left unattended in the front yard of a home in the 500 block of Madison was stolen. It was worth $120.

August 21

A man who was walking down the 1000 block of Clay screaming that he was going to kill someone was arrested and taken to Highlands Hospital for observation. David Allen Meyers, 31, of Albany, had been drinking.

A 1978 Buick Regal parked in the parking lot at Gateview was burglarized of its $800 sun roof.

August 22

A 1976 Toyota that was parked along the 1100 block of Washington had its paint job ruined when an unknown person ripped a hole in its side with a shotgun blast.

Billy Vernon Boston, 46, of Oakland, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants.

EL CERRITO

The Police department reports the following activity for the two weeks ending August 22

August 10

Nancy Barry Harris was arrested and charged with petty theft. She was issued a citation.

August 12

Mary Frances Handy was arrested and charged with forgery. Bail was set at $3,000.

August 14

Paul Richard Pescu was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

August 16

Ambrose Daniel Northcutt was arrested and charged with battery. Bail was set at $315.

Markus Hugo Strane was arrested and charged with receiving stolen property. Bail was set at $3,000.

August 18

Elizabeth Jean Rhoda was arrested and charged with shoplifting. She was released on her own recognizance.

John Richard Murphy was arrested and charged with (Continued on Page 21)

Returning recently from a year's stay in Japan was El Cerrito resident Martha Matsuko. Martha, a student at Occidental College, was among 100 other students from all over California who traveled to Japan to live for a year. While there, Martha stayed with a host family and was a student at Waseda University in Tokyo, where she continued her studies in the university's International Division.

During her stay, Martha also found time to travel and visit relatives. Home now, Martha is preparing to begin her senior year at Occidental next month where she is a political science major.

El Cerrito resident Julie Johnson returned recently from vacationing in Tahoe. Also spending their vacation there were Julie's parents, Richard and Helen Johnson; and sisters and brothers-in-law, Sheri and Milt Armstrong and Glenda and Tim Rau. While in Tahoe the Johnsons did some rafting on the Truckee River, visited the Ponderosa Ranch, and enjoyed the private beach adjacent to their cabin. Joining the Johnson family at Tahoe were friends Steven and Chrissy Maki and John Feister.

Obituaries

Stephen J. Dong

EL CERRITO — Services for Stephen J. Dong, an El Cerrito resident for the past 24 years, were held this week at Sunset View Mortuary Chapel.

A native of San Mateo, Mr. Dong died Aug. 17 in a Berkeley hospital after a long illness. He was 26.

He is survived by his parents, James and Mary Dong of El Cerrito, and a sister, Patricia Ng of Lafayette.

Services were officiated

by Brother Tom Sporman. Burial was at Sunset View Cemetery.

Charlotte Harden

ALBANY — Memorial services for Charlotte R. Harden, who died Aug. 12 in Hayward, were held last week at Ellis-Olson Mortuary.

Mrs. Harden was a native of Oakland who lived in Albany 15 years. She was Past Matron of Golden Star Chapter 66, OES, of Jackson and a member of the Machinists Lodge 824 of Richmond.

Survivors include two sons, Walter Scott, of West Point, and Pat Hooper, of Hayward; a daughter, Nancy Scott, of Sunnyvale; a sister, Helen Casselle, of Albany; a brother, Pete Andersen, of Paradise; seven grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Dr. Fred Stripp officiated at services. Committal was private.

The family asks that contributions in her memory be made to the American Cancer Society.

Myrtle McLean

ALBANY — Friends have learned of the death of former City Clerk Myrtle J. McLean, who was employed by the City of Albany for 41 years before her retirement in 1968. She died July 29 in Walnut Creek and no funeral services were held.

Survivors include her daughter, Jane McLean Mathis of Walnut Creek, and two grandchildren, Susan Ferstler of Antioch and Terry Mathis of Martinez. She was the widow of the late John N. McLean.

A native of Snelling, she came to Albany in 1925. In 1927, she was appointed to a job in the assessor's office, where she worked on the City Charter.

After the charter was adopted, the city needed a city clerk and she served as an appointee for 14 years. In 1940, she filed for the position of city clerk and was elected. In addition, she was city auditor, assessor and registrar of vital statistics.

She prepared the budget every year until Albany hired the late James B. Turner as administrative assistant in 1961. She conducted all elections, including two recall elections, three referendum elections and one initiative election.

Mrs. McLean was a charter member of Soroptimists International of Albany, American Legion auxiliary No. 292, VFW auxiliary, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Albany Municipal Employees' Association and Alberico Chapter of Business and Professional Women, City Clerks' Association and Governmental Accountants' Association.

During her years in office, she saw new city buildings completed in 1966, the population increase from 8,000 to 18,000, the number of city employees double and the construction of University Village, Golden Gate Fields and Western Regional Research Center. She noted the appearance of new farming operations, the opening of businesses, the construction of new homes and the making of a few stores on the new

More than 20 years later, she attended Mrs. McLean's retirement party in 1968. She was Albany's Director of the City of Albany Council, was on the Day on K&L received recognition from the Alameda County Supervisors' Council and the Employees' Association. She presented the gift because of her service in as police officer from 1922 to 1936. She received an award as police chief.

Mildred

services for Mildred Mestas, who died Aug. 13, were held at Ellis-Olson Mortuary.

Mrs. Mestas was of Fine River, a longtime Albany resident. She founded the Firemen's Association as a member of the Mond Lodge of the Moose. She was a member of the Bowling League, Pablo Sports and a former member of the Berkeley Auxiliary.

Survivors include her husband, Mr. Mestas, of Albany; sons, James and Walter Mestas, of Albany; and three grandchildren. The Rev. Gary officiated at services which were held at Sunset View Mortuary.

The family requests contributions in memory be made to charity.

Protecting your home from fire

Many Californians are concerned about the danger of fire damage to their homes, especially in summer and fall when plant growth slows or ceases and dead and living plant materials become increasingly dry and flammable. Proper landscaping practices can help reduce fire hazard, explains Richard Standiford, forestry specialist at U.C.-Berkeley.

He advises: keep trees and brush at least six feet away from buildings. These plantings, besides being a fire hazard, enable leaves and fire-catching debris to accumulate in gutters.

To be on the safe side, clean away overhanging branches, dry grass, trash - anything that readily catches fire - which is within 30 feet of the house. Ask your fire department for local regulations.

Maintain a clean landscape. Remove litter from under trees and shrubs and prune out dead wood. Get rid of dead and dried portions of ground covers and succulents.

Leave space between shrubs and trees to help prevent fire spread. Plant lawns, succulent ground covers or other low growing plants around your home and water regularly.

There is not such thing as a plant that will not burn; the more a plant grows and the larger it becomes, the more potential fuel it produces and the greater the fire hazard it poses. When a plant is green and growing vigorously, it's more likely to burn. Watering can make the difference between an extremely flammable plant and one which won't burn easily.

The following include some excellent plantings to use on landscaped irrigated hillsides for fire protection: ground covers - dwarf coyote bush, Algerian ivy, sunrose, iceplant (various genera); shrubs - Carmel creeper, rockrose, toyon; trees - carob, California laurel and fan palms.

Increase the effectiveness of your plantings by using a high-pressure sprinkler system. Consult and arrange with neighboring homeowners to

YMCA plans class for pregnant women

ALBANY — The Albany YMCA is offering an on-going exercise program for mothers-to-be and new mothers, Mondays and Wednesdays, 7:30-8:30 p.m., starting Sept. 13.

The program is designed to strengthen muscles in preparation for childbirth and motherhood. Pregnancy-related problems will be discussed, and helpful exercises also observe fire prevention measures. Even if you've taken all the precautions, your house can still be in danger if surrounding homeowners do not observe fire safety.

For more detailed information on protecting your home from wildfire, ask for the illustrated leaflet No. 21104, "Brush Management - Protecting Your Home Again Wildfire." Mail requests to UC Cooperative Extension Publications, 1422 Harbour Way South, Richmond Ca. 94804. Enclose check payable to UC Regents for $1.27, which includes postage, tax and handling.

will be taught. Breathing techniques, relaxation and posture training are also included.

Also welcomed in the class are new mothers, since many of the exercises are very helpful for regaining the former posture and figure.

The YMCA instructor is certified and trained in prenatal and post-partum exercises. Cost is $10 per month, once a week, $20 per month for twice a week and $31 drop-in fee. Child care will not be provided.

Preschool has fall openings

ALBANY — The Albany Co-operative Preschool (850 Masonic Ave.) has openings this fall for children 2 years 9 mos. (not trained) to kindergarten age.

The school has added a pre-kindergarten afternoon session, to be directed by Jan Pearson.

In existence for 45 years, the school operates Monday - Friday, with a morning session from 9 a.m. to noon and the pre-kindergarten program from 1 to 4 p.m. Parents participate one day weekly during their child's session.

The tuition is $60 per month and school will start Sept. 13. Interested parents should contact Patricia McKay at 525-2147 for the pre-kindergarten program or Catherine Lutes at 549-0280 for the morning program.

Who will get a free lunch?

The Richmond Unified School District has adopted a policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch Program.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

For families of two members, weekly income up to $117 qualifies a child for a free meal; from $118 to $167, for a reduced price meal. For a family of three, the limits are $156, free; $221, reduced.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Each school and the office of the director of food services has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Woman is

EL CERRITO — Police are investigating the kidnap and robbery of a pregnant Richmond woman who was seized Aug. 27 as she was leaving work here.

The victim was forced to take the wheel of a van and drive through the Berkeley and Oakland hills before being left at 13th Street and Broadway in Oakland.

According to Oakland police, Elizabeth Daughtry, 25, was kidnapped at gunpoint by a young man and woman and guided through the circuitous route before being dropped off in Oakland.

The suspects fled on foot after taking two rings and a purse containing $70 in cash from the woman, police said.

Daughtry is about seven months pregnant, according to reports.

Pietro Bernasconi, one of the world's greatest players who thoroughly justified Jaime's words.

Off hand, it looks as if the 10 of diamonds lead combined with the diamond position had doomed the slam.

But Pietro was equal to the occasion. He played dummy's jack. East won and led his singleton trump to dummy's queen. A heart was ruffed, three trumps were cashed to pull West's teeth, a club was led to the queen and a second heart ruffed.

Next came the play of the club king to come down to four cards. Dummy held his two aces and the jack-nine of hearts. Declarer held his last trump, the eight-four of diamonds and jack of clubs while East held ace-10 of hearts and king-seven of diamonds.

The jack of clubs was now led to dummy's ace and East was caught in a crisscross squeeze. If he let a heart go, the nine of hearts would be ruffed and ruffed and dummy's jack of hearts would be good. If he threw a diamond, the ace of diamonds would be played to establish the eight.

All East could do was throw up his hands and surrender.

EBMUD plans wind energy study

Breezes blowing through passes and over ridgetops on East Bay Municipal Utility District land could be a valuable energy source, the EBMUD board learned recently.

A $10,000 study conducted for EBMUD by Atmospheric Research and Technology, Inc. of Sacramento concluded that nine sites in hills of Alameda and Contra Costa counties may be windy enough to support commercial electricity production. Further study of these areas to determine wind velocity and direction, and the possibility of an interconnection with Pacific Gas and Electric Company, was recommended.

"The study is part of EBMUD's ongoing effort to examine the energy potential of its own resources," according to Orrin Harder, EBMUD's chief engineer.

"Being self-sufficient in energy production could help slow future increases in rates for water customers, since less money would be needed to pay for energy from outside suppliers," he added. "It also would insure the District's energy needs are met even if future supplies are curtailed."

The next phase of the study recommends placing anemometers to measure wind speed and duration at Rocky Ridge, a portion of EBMUD's Upper San Leandro Reservoir watershed property west of San Ramon. Information collected at the site will help determine its potential for wind energy production.

"Presently, purchasing energy from commercial sources is more reliable and economical than producing power from the wind, Harder said, "but with higher gas and oil prices likely in the future, a wind energy project could become a valuable investment."

The wind energy study is part of EBMUD's long-range program to develop alternatives to present energy sources. The utility district's latest projects include construction of a co-generation facility at its sewage treatment plant near the Bay Bridge toll plaza. The facility will produce electricity to run the plant from quantities of digester gas, by-product of the sewage treatment process. It is scheduled for completion in 1983.

Some $25 million in additional hydroelectric facilities are being built at EBMUD's Comanche and Pardee Dams on the Mokelumne River in the lower Sierra Nevada foothills. The new power plants are scheduled to be on-line in August 1982.

Under a permit from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, EBMUD is studying the possibility of further hydroelectric development on the Mokelumne at a site near Middle Bar Bridge, and has applied for a permit to study another site at Railroad Flat.
